Fjäder

The new hybrid Nyckelharpa bow

This handcrafted bow draws inspiration from bows in the old Swedish tradition as well as from the Middle Ages. It thus spans the arc from the past to modernity!

Instead of a straight bow stick, Fjäder has a convex one. This supports the quarter-circle forearm movement characteristic of the Nyckelharpa, especially in the traditional playing style. In combination with optimal balancing this supports easier bow movement.

Each bow is unique.

I work with the characteristics each piece of wood brings to my workbench: its individual grain, coloring & textures result in your very own distinctive Fjäder.

Materials

Only tone woods from the Austrian Alps are used: maple, ash, walnut, cherry, plum, larch, yew... For inlays and frogs I like to use a variety of hardwoods and fruitwoods like apricot, pear...

Fjäder.

Plays light as a feather!
